How Water Was Obtained by the Use of Gun Barrels—A Ship Navigated by Means of a Railway Map. Dynamite Used For Driving Piles.

Guns have other uses than that of killing. We all know that hundreds of clocks are set from the 1 o'clock gun fired by electricity from Greenwich observatory, but not everybody is aware that rifles have supplied moisture in desert countries to travelers dying of thirst and thus saved their lives.

In the great Sahara some time ago, says Pearson's Weekly, a globe trotter, who wanted water badly, found it possible to collect a drink out of the mere dampness of the sand. He sunk the barrel of his gun into the ground and it collected enough moisture in the bore to stay his thirst. A timely such at a gun muzzle had saved many lives in the sun scorched deserts of the tropics.

Water ran short on a merchant vessel in mid-Atlantic not long ago, and the crew did not know what to do to obtain a drink. The captain, however, hit upon a brilliant idea.

He had a number of sporting guns in his cabin, and, taking them on deck, he plugged up the breech ends, filled the barrels with sea water and set them end up among the coals of the galley fire.

As the steam gathered he ran it through other gun barrels until it cooled. The steam collected in the shape of excellent fresh water, and in this way the crew were supplied with sufficient moisture until the vessel touched port.

It was time to drop into the house of the French peasants you would be struck with the fact that practically every man and woman poked his or her fire with a bayonet.

Some 100,000 bayonets—condemned stores of the French army and used in the Franco-Prussian war—have found their way into the homes of poor peasants, who use them as fire irons.

The bark Ruth, bound from Demerara to Oahu with sugar, neglected to procure a chart of the Scottish coast when setting sail. The captain had never been to Oahu before, and, not wishing to return to Demerara to get a chart, he looked about the vessel for a substitute.

He discovered a Caledonian railway time table, with the railway map attached. This helped him out of his difficulty, for it acted splendidly as a sea guide. The Ruth cut across the Atlantic and after sailing up the west coast of Scotland dropped her anchor safely in Oahu bay.

Without this railway map the captain would never have got his vessel safely through the intricate channels.

Good steel wasn't obtainable when the Germans wished to manufacture some new rifles for their army, so they purchased tons of horseshoe nails which had been rejected by the makers of the world by horses innumerable.

The gunmakers found them a perfect substance for the manufacture of rifle barrels, for the nails, made originally of the best metal obtainable, had received from the constant pounding of the horses' feet on hard roads a peculiar annealing and toughening.

It is quite possible that you are wearing on your hands today draw up lawyers' briefs or ancient title deeds.

When kid leather was at a premium the French glove makers hunted high and low for a substitute. One firm, more ingenious than the rest, bought up old parchments of all descriptions. They carefully removed the ink marks and eventually turned the cleaned parchment into gloves.

Ever since that particular firm has supplied Britain with finest French kid gloves made of parchment. The yellow clippings left over when the gloves are made are boiled down and turned into letter cases and purses.

The British forces were about to cross the Elands river during the Boer war when it was discovered that it was impossible to construct a trestle bridge across it, for the bed of the river was nothing but quicksand. Piles had to be driven, but no pile driver was handy.

The officers of the engineers, however, overcame the difficulty in a way that startled the general in command of the troops. The sappers waded into the water, set up the piles and laid iron plates on each one. On these small charges of dynamite were placed and fired.

After the explosion the piles were as firm as if they had been driven in by a steam hammer. Dynamite exploded downward with a terrific force, and anything below it is pounded deeply into the earth.

Mr. Fosdyke, engineer in charge of the Asaka dam on the Nile, scuttled a ship for a terrible disaster was imminent. Mr. Fosdyke boarded a cargo steamer tied to the bank some distance away and, getting up steam, steered her down the rapid stream.

When she was abreast on the trembling dam the engineer had her scuttled, and as she sank in the rushing waters Mr. Fosdyke and his men cheerfully themselves hoarse. The scuttled cargo steamer had saved the dam. This remarkable makeshift for a break-water cost nearly $7,000.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]

Professor Merrill, curator of geology at the National museum, recently placed on exhibition in that institution what is undoubtedly the largest mass of pure amethysts in the world.

Early in 1901 the agents of one of the great gem cutting works of Oberstein, Bavaria, discovered on the slope of the Serra do Mar, in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul, the largest mass of pure amethysts ever brought to light.

The mass occurred in the form of a geode, thirty-three feet in length, five feet in width, three feet in height and weighing thirty-five tons. Part of this geode was exposed standing upright in the form of a huge violet colored monolith, but the lower end was firmly imbedded in the original melaphy matrix rock. Most of the great scientific institutions of the world would have given thousands of dollars for this gem, but the gem cutters, not wishing to have an eye only to the commercial value of the geode, broke it up into fragments, in which form it was shipped to Germany.

Professor Merrill recognized the value of this geode to the world of learning, and it was due to his influence that the Smithsonian Institution purchased from the German gem cutting works the largest of the fragments still remaining, which, notwithstanding the fact that it forms but a small part of the original geode, weighing only 400 pounds, is nevertheless the largest mass of amethysts in the world.

Historic Table Mutilated.
Immediately after President Roosevelt took the oath of office in front of the capitol on March 4 and left the stand one of the invited guests of distinction drew a knife from his pocket and sliced an oblong splinter half that inch thick from the famous walnut table at which presidents have been sworn into office since the days of John Quincy Adams. It has been rumored that the vandal was a foreign agent, and that the police refrained from making an arrest because of his official position.

All Nations Invited.
The president has issued a proclamation inviting all nations to be represented by their military organizations and naval vessels at the celebration to be held in the vicinity of Jamestown, Va., from May 13 until November, 1907.

White House Bars Hand Bags.
Persons familiar with President Roosevelt's private hatred of bodyguards and similar precautions are wondering how soon he would give a gentle rebuke to the zealous official responsible for a new rule in respect of White House visitors. The rule is that no one shall carry a valise, suitcase, satchel, bundle, package, parcel or, in fact, anything in a wrapper into the executive mansion.

Sunday Observance.
The past social season at the capital witnessed a marked broadening in the manner in which Sunday is observed. The puritanical restrictions thrown about the day in bygone years have been loosened despite the warnings of the clergy against any tendency toward the continental Sunday.

Society's progress toward a more liberal Sunday has been gradual, but the broader regime has come steadily on. Bishop Satterlee of the Episcopal diocese of Washington has frequently spoken of the practice of making Sunday like every other day in the week, but society has gone merrily on. Sunday dinner parties have become more and more the vogue. The capital on Sundays has had its rounds of dinners, informal at homes, afternoon teas, the parties for the evening concerts, which are the only attractions at the local playhouses on this day, with gay little suppers afterward at the hotels and cafes or at the homes of the hosts and hostesses.

Gifts to the Government.
Slightly removed in spirit from the conscience fund, but belonging to the peculiar needs of the government, are the gifts which it receives from its citizens. Occasionally a man bequeaths his property in whole or in part to the United States government. This was true of General Nathaniel Lyon, who was killed at the battle of Williams Creek while fighting valiantly to save Missouri for the Union.

One of the most curious gifts which the treasury regularly receives four times a year is a seventy-two dollar check. The giver draws a pension of that amount. He does not want to relinquish it for fear that some time he might want it, but so long as he retains a lucrative position which he is able to fill, he thinks he ought not to have the pension.

Bringing Home Oriental Valets.
A peculiar fact that has received little mention, said a clerk in one of the leading hotels, "is that it is getting more and more the custom for those who have resided for any time in the Orient to bring at least one native servant home with them. Every friendship now has at least two or three of these servants, and it is getting to be a problem for us to dispose of them when their employers come here. Japs are the most common, although we have now and then a Filipino valet in the train of an army officer."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Hydraulic Drill.
Boring the Simpson tunnel has been the triumph of the hydraulic rotating drill. This tool has a hydraulic washer, which directs a powerful jet of water to clear away the rubbish and also serves to cool the temperature of the cutting edges. Thus it causes no dust, which is the cause of the disease called "tunnel worm." In the boring of the St. Gothard 80 per cent of the miners were stricken down with this disease, whereas the Simpson miners have enjoyed complete immunity from it.

What Our Pig Iron Would Make.
The pig iron produced in the United States in one year would make a column twice the height and size of the Eiffel tower. The iron and steel rails if made into one rail would be eighty-one feet wide at the base, just as high and a mile and a fifth long. The coke used in blast furnaces would form a column 400 feet square and 6,500 feet high, and the limestone used would make a column 200 feet square and 5,500 feet high.—Success Magazine.

CHOICE MISCELLANY

A Bad Place to Get Sick.

In his book, "Uganda and Its Peoples," J. F. Cunningham tells of a curious manner of treating the sick among a certain native African tribe: "When a person fell ill the village prophet was called in. He said at once whether the sick person would recover or not. If he was doomed to die he was allowed to fulfill the prophecy; if he was to live there was no need of medical aid." Another strange custom is explained in the words of the native who when asked by the author why women were not allowed to eat the flesh of goats replied, "There is no why; it is the custom."

Its Delight.

How the Canal Will Be Dug.
Within limits we now know just about what will be done. The bottom width of the cut will be 200 feet and the sides 45 to 60 feet. The Suez canal, averaging 115 feet wide at the bottom and permitting a draft of only 27 feet 10 inches, has proved too small. Several of the great naval battleships of the British navy can now go through it only with hazard, and none of the larger freighters fully loaded, such as have proved most economical for the transatlantic trade, could go through. Even the larger German lines trading to the Orient often lose their storages way and sheer against the sides. The Panama canal will be able to admit even larger vessels. There must be one lock—a tide lock—near Miraflores and possibly one at Bollo to reduce excavation.—World's Work.

Too Poor For Black Beetles.
Dr. E. J. Dillon's article on Russia in the Nineteenth Century mentions a curious detail in illustration of the extreme poverty of the peasants. The very vermin die out in the poorer huts. Dr. Shingardoff writes that the familiar animal known to scientists as Cimex lectularius was wholly absent in the very poorest of the dwellings he examined and was found only in places where a certain relative comfort prevailed. Black beetles and cockroaches, being less squeamish, were found more evenly distributed. But even here there are limits. "The black beetle does not flourish in all conditions. Certainly extreme poverty is a considerable obstacle to its existence. There are 10 per cent of the huts so poor that even black beetles cannot live there."

The King's English.
In his speech at the opening of parliament King Edward of England violated the king's English with inaccuracies, of which the following are examples: "With a fine impartiality he said that 'my government has,' 'my government is,' 'my government has' and 'the Chinese government have.'" Then he said "the war which has been in progress since February last continues." Of course it continues; otherwise it would be a war that "had" been in progress. "Progress has notably been made in the reorganization of the gendarmerie, to which officers belonging to my army have contributed valuable assistance." What precedent noun does "which" refer to—progress, reorganization or gendarmerie?

Gold Railroad Passes.
It is nice to have a gold pass attached to your watch chain which franks you first class over the railways of a continent and sends every ticket collector's hand to his cap. Such is the happy lot of Australian ministers and ex-ministers, but the "deadheads" are now so many that the question of restricting the issue of passes has been engaging the premiers' conference at Hobart. The loss of railway revenue runs to many thousands of pounds. In Victoria alone there are eighty ex-ministers with free passes. One has had his pass since 1857. He must be the record "deadhead" of the world.—London Chronicle.

LET THE PEOPLE SAY

Practically everybody in Sonoma, property owners as well as others, favors the immediate building of the new city hall.

A great majority of those we have interviewed are in favor of bonding the city for the balance required to finish the building in question, say, $10,000.

One of the largest taxpayers in the city made this remark yesterday: "I hope that the city trustees will give the people a chance to say whether they want to tax themselves or not, by calling an election and submitting the question to the voter."

It has been said that every progressive and thriving city in California is, or has been bonded for public improvements. Let's have a little taste of modernness for good old Sonoma.

We think it is nothing more than fair that the people should be allowed to vote on the proposition of taxing themselves if they desire to.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease and requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cures taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it failed to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all druggists, 75c.

EASTER AT M. E. CHURCH

Easter at the M. E. Church was appropriately observed. The church was artistically decorated for the occasion, and the work did great credit to the ladies who had the matter in hand.

In the morning a special Easter sermon was delivered by the pastor, from the text, "The Lion of the tribe of Judah hath prevailed." Special anthems and songs were very acceptably rendered by the choir.

In the evening a bright and profitable program bearing on Easter, was given by the Sunday school.

The children were well equipped for the effort. A good congregation filled the church on both occasions. Offerings were taken for foreign missionary work, and the church reports good success.

MAY DAY PIC-NIC

The Sisters of the Redemption will hold their annual May Day picnic at the beautiful grounds of Buena Vista Castle. Mr. Martie has kindly donated the use of the grounds for the occasion.

Cures Coughs and Colds.
Mrs. C. Peterson, 625 Lake St., Topeka, Kansas, says: "Of all cough remedies Ballard's Horehound Syrup is my favorite; it has done and will do all that is claimed for it—to speedily cure all coughs and colds—and is so sweet and pleasant to the taste. 25c 50c $1.00 bottle. Sold by L. S. Simmons, Druggist, Sonoma, Cal."

LAWN PARTY

A lawn party will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church on May 19th, at the home of Mrs. Clements, on the late Howe estate, near Shellville.

MET WITH AN ACCIDENT.

The nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clements, who reside near El Verano met with a painful accident last Friday afternoon. She was riding on horseback, when her horse took fright at an approaching bicyclist. The little girl was thrown to the ground and sustained a broken arm and some minor injuries. Dr. Thomson attended the young patient, and she is now improving as well as could be expected.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of the prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it cures irregularities and have cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." Sold by L. S. Simmons Druggist, Sonoma Cal.

EASTER SERVICES

AT ST. FRANCIS CHURCH

High mass was celebrated in St. Francis Church, here, on Easter Sunday. A large congregation was present and listened to a forceful and appropriate discourse by Rev. Father Leahy. A leading feature of the service was some choice singing by the choir under the direction of Mrs. L. V. Emparan. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Frightful Suffering Relieved.

Suffering frightfully from the virulent poisons of undigested food, C. G. Grayson, of Lula, Miss., took Dr. King's Life Pills, "with the result," he writes, "that I was cured." All stomach and bowel disorders give away to their tonic, laxative properties. 25c at Shoult's drug store, guaranteed.

SONOMAS VS. BEAR FLAGS

The baseball season was opened here Sunday by a game between the Sonomas and the Bear Flags. The contest was very close throughout the nine innings, the score standing three to one in favor of the Sonomas.

A feature of the game was the effective pitching of Jansen and Connell.

A Thousand Dollars Worth of Good.
"I have been afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble for years, passing gravel and stones with excruciating pain," says A. H. Thurnes, a well known coal operator of Buffalo, O. "I got no relief from medicine until I began to take Foley's Kidney Cure, then the result was surprising. A few doses started the brick-dust like substance and I have no pain across my kidneys and I feel like a new man. It has done me $1000 worth of good." Foley's Kidney Cure will cure any form of kidney and bladder disease. Sold by L. S. Simmons, Druggist, Sonoma Cal.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

County Superintendent Miss Minnie Coulter, called the forty-first session of the Sonoma county Teachers' Institute to order on Monday afternoon. The assembly room of the Santa Rosa High School where the sessions are to be held was tastefully decorated with ivy, locust and pepper tree limbs, California poppies, roses and snowballs. "Old Glory" also had a prominent place in the scheme.

HIGH CLASS INSTITUTION

Of all the business colleges in the West there is none better than Santa Rosa Business College located at Santa Rosa, California.

Prof. J. S. Sweet, the President of the college, is one of the leading educators and thinkers of the Pacific Coast. He had many years of successful experience in grammar, high and normal school work before founding this institution at the county seat, nearly fourteen years ago. From a small beginning the Santa Rosa Business College has by honest work and good results built itself up to the present large proportions and stands high in public estimation. A diploma of graduation from Santa Rosa Business College is a recommendation that means something and starts every young lady or gentleman on a successful business career.

Last year one hundred and fifty students, mainly from California but many from other parts of the Union, enrolled themselves in the Santa Rosa Business College. Hundreds of its graduates are now holding responsible positions in this and other states in the Union.

When Sonoma County has a business college of international reputation and gives a better education than any similar institution elsewhere, common sense as well as one's own best interests demands that the home institution should have the preference. Students may enter at any time.

RELIABLE MUSIC DEALER

M. Zoberbier, proprietor of a music and piano store of Santa Rosa, will make regular monthly visits to Sonoma and vicinity.

See him before purchasing your pianos, organs or other musical instruments. He carries a complete stock of the best makes and will make you better prices and terms for reliable pianos than any other house on the coast. He also has a stock of graphophones, phonographs, etc. His prices are right and whatever Mr. Zoberbier recommends can be relied upon. Parties desire to advise with Mr. Zoberbier in regard to musical instruments can address him at Santa Rosa or leave word at this office.

DEATH OF JNO. REVIE

On Saturday morning the community learned of the sad death of John Craig Revie, which occurred at eleven o'clock Friday night at his home in El Verano.

Mr. Revie had been suffering from an injury to the spine caused by a fall, for nearly two years. Everything that could be done to alleviate his suffering and to effect a cure if possible, was done, but to no avail. Some six months ago an operation was performed in San Francisco when a portion of the spinal column was removed. For a time he seemed to improve, but for the past few weeks suffered several bad spells. The family were at the bedside of their loved one when his spirit took its flight.

Deceased was born in Scotland forty one years ago and had resided in Sonoma Valley for many years. He was a sturdy, honest and industrious man, universally respected for his many sterling traits of character.

He leaves a widow and four children to mourn the loss of a kind and indulgent husband and father.

The heartfelt sympathy of all goes out to the bereaved family in their sad and irreparable loss.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. from the residence of J. M. Cheney and was largely attended.

Deceased was a member of Temple Lodge, F and A. M. under whose auspices the funeral was conducted.

Interment was in Mountain Cemetery.

THEY THINK IT'S WORRY

Health reports from many cities comment on the alarming development of Bright's Disease. It seems to be our national complaint, and has increased enormously the last decade.

The strain and worry of our American life seems to be credited as the prime cause.

The suggestion is that we lead simpler and less strenuous lives. But we haven't time to stop, and the disease is growing at an appalling rate.

The multitudes who confess kidney troubles would not seriously receive the suggestion that nine tenths of them have Bright's disease, and yet of the 63,612 deaths from kidney diseases in 1900 the census returned 28,748 (over nine tenths) as due to the particular form known as Bright's Disease.

TEDDY KILLS THREE BEARS

A courier from the President's camp arrived at Glenwood Springs, with the information that the President and party had been unusually successful in hunting. Five bears have been killed, three of them by the President. The party is practically snowed in, there is fifteen feet of snow in the vicinity where they are. They will make no attempt to get out for a while.

Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Immediately relieves hoarse, croupy cough, oppressed, rattling, rasping and difficult breathing. Henry C. Stearns, Druggist, Shillburg, Wis., writes, May 20, 1901: "I have been selling Ballard's Horehound Syrup for two years, and have never had a preparation that has given better satisfaction. I notice that when I sell a bottle they come back for more. I can honestly recommend it." 25c 50c and $1. Sold by L. S. Simmons, Druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

ABOUT HOPS

From the record kept by Hoults, J. et al & Peterson of Santa Rosa, it has been ascertained that the acreage of new hops planted this season in Sonoma county exceeds 1500 acres. The record is complete and correct as the firm has been able to keep it and is an indication of the growth of industry in Sonoma county. Last year the new acreage planted was about 780 acres.

Last Hope Vanished.

When leading physicians said that W M Smithart, of Pekin, Ia., had incurable consumption, his last hope vanished; but Dr. Kings New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, kept him out of his grave. He says: "This great specific completely cured me, and saved my life. Since then I have used it for over 10 years, and consider it a marvelous throat and lung cure." Strictly scientific cure for Coughs and Colds or Sore Throats; sure preventive of Pneumonia. Guaranteed, 50c and $1.00 bottles at Shoults drug store. Trial bottle free.

SONOMA VALLEY BOARD OF TRADE

The newly elected Directors of the Board of Trade met at the Sonoma Valley Bank on Wednesday afternoon and organized by electing F. T. Duhring, President, W. O. Hocker Secretary and W. F. Clewe Treasurer.

In the evening the Board of Trade met at Union Hall and adopted a Constitution, according to which, any person may become a member by signing the roll and paying 25c dues in advance. The dues are 50c per month.

Regular meetings are to be held on the last Wednesday of each month.

The President announced the following standing committees: Committee on Printing and Advertising—O. P. Palestine, L. S. Simmons, Dr. Byron, Carl Dresel, G. H. Hotz.

Committee on Agriculture and General Statistics—Robert Hall, R. J. Dowdall, O. R. Rufus.

Committee on Exhibits—Dr. Gottenberg, A. T. Skinner, H. Boyes, Thomas Johnson, J. K. Bigelow.

Finance and Auditing Committee—Jesse Burris, H. F. Bates, J. B. Small.

Transportation Committee—H. Francis, Chairman. Others to be appointed later.

Promotion and Membership—J. T. McQuiddy, C. Dal'Pogetto, L. H. Green. And others to be appointed later.

The President states that it was very anxious to get photographs of scenes and industries of the Valley which he could use for the purpose of illustrating printed matter.

The meeting then adjourned.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Twenty years ago I had Kidney Trouble which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since I find they have no equal." Shoults & Co. Druggist, guarantees them at 50c.

NEW BULLETIN ON CODLIN MOTH CONTROL

A new bulletin on codlin moth control, which is the result of a year's work in the Watsonville region, has just been issued by the University of California. The scientists of the Agricultural College recommend that lead arsenate instead of paris green be used as an exterminator. In part the bulletin reads as follows:

In every section where a snail spraying for the codlin moth is practiced, the solid deposit left on the fruit probably gives rise to more or less criticism, but in practice this has not proved objectionable.

In other apple growing sections this whitewash is carried to such an extent that the color of the fruit is obscured, but when the coating is wiped off the rind is found in as good, if not in a better, condition than that of the unsprayed product.

The poisonous effects of the arsenicals on persons eating the sprayed fruit while applying the wash might be imagined to be a serious objection to their use. In fact, however, no authentic case of poisoning has developed, and it may be further stated in this connection that minute quantities of arsenic have been proved to be harmless and are always to be found in the system.

With regard to the dangers arising from the application of the spray, this injury is least with good commercial lead arsenate because of its complete insolubility, which renders it impossible for the operators to absorb any poison through the pores of the skin.

It is recommended that paris green be discarded in all localities where its careful use has proved injurious to the trees.

Arsenate of lead has been found reliable as an insecticide as well as neutral toward vegetation, and its use is recommended.

During the coming season the growers are advised to use commercial lead arsenate, rather than attempt the production of the home-made article.

Caring For Young Chickens

H. F. Whitman of Alameda, writes as follows in the Pacific Rural Press:

The most important thing for the first 24 hrs. of a young chick's life is the proper amount of heat. When under the hen about the same temperature is given to the eggs hatching and the chicks hatched, and it is a great mistake to take chicks from an incubator where the temperature is about 102 degrees and put them in a brooder where the temperature is between 80 and 90 degrees; too degrees is none to warm for the little chicks for the first two days at least provided the ventilation is good and a constant current of fresh air is entering the brooder. Let a chick become chilled and bowel trouble will develop in a short time, while with good warm quarters and fresh air there is very little danger of any sickness.

After 24 hours give the newly hatched chicks hard boiled eggs chopped fine, mixed with oatmeal, about half and half. I find that the chicks relish it more when the oatmeal is dried or parched in the oven before mixing with the egg. This allows the mixture to be a dry one, and chicks thrive much better on dry than on wet ration. Sometimes I mix a little sharp, clean grit or sand with their food, if not it is placed where they can easily reach it; also some fine charcoal, which they eat with avidity and which aids digestion. I also give them water from the first, all they can drink, having a fountain arranged so they cannot step or fall into the water. See that the water is kept scrupulously clean and the water fresh.

For the first ten days I feed every 2 hrs., giving them a little at a time only what they will eat up clean; about the third day I begin to decrease the quantity of egg, making the proportion of meal larger, also give feed of cooked cracked wheat at night. The cracked wheat should be cooked as dry as possible.

Chickens and Morality.

"Dr. B. H. M. Master Speaker," began the moss grown member from Shell-back county, rising in his place in the legislature, "I ask for the passage of this year hen hawk bill of mine in the interests of religion, good morals and civilization."

"If we don't have a law payin' a bounty for killin' 'em nobody will kill 'em hawks. If nobody kills the hawks the fatch faked hawks will kill the chickens. If we don't have no chickens we won't have no preachers after a little while, and whar there ain't no preachers there ain't no religion, and whar there ain't no religion there ain't no morals. Without good morals there ain't no happy homes, and happy homes is the bulwarks of the state. Without 'em, Mister Speaker, our boasted civilization becomes a howlin' wilderness. For the preservation of civilization we've got to have happy homes in our midst, and in order to have 'em we've got to have good morals. Good morals depend upon religion, and to have religion we must have preachers, and it 'pears like preachers have just naturally got to have chickens. If we want 'em to have chickens we must slay off the hawks, and in order to get the hawks slaw we are forced to make it to the interest of somebody to kill 'em. No bounty, no chickens; no chickens, no preachers; no preachers, no religion; no religion, no morals; no morals, no homes. Therefore I agin ask that this year bill of mine be passed."—Puck.

Scottish-Irish Blood.

Until recent years it has been the misfortune of the Scotch-Irish to have escaped historical investigation, for American history has been written chiefly in New England, whose colonial Puritans forbade them in their midst. In fact, from the earliest settlement the Scotch-Irish have been pioneers and men of action. They have contributed to America few writers and artists, but many generals, politicians and captains of industry. In literature they claim two eminent names, Irving and Poe, but in the army, navy, politics and business they claim John Paul Jones, Perry, Andrew Jackson, Winfield Scott, Zachary Taylor, Ulysses S. Grant, Stonewall Jackson, George B. McClellan, Alexander Hamilton, John C. Calhoun, James G. Blaine, Jefferson Davis, Thomas Benton, Horatio Nelson, John G. Carlisle, Mark Hanna, William McKinley, Matthew S. Quay, Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, Horace Greeley, Henry Watterson and hundreds alike famous in the more strenuous movements of American life.—J. R. Commons in Chautauquan.

A Typographical Tragedy.

"You have some professional humorists working on your linotype machines, haven't you?" asked the poet.

"Haven't noticed that any of them have a falling that way," answered the editor.

"Well, you're a poor observer. Do you read your own paper?"

"Occasionally."

"Did you read my poem, 'To Agatha,' in yesterday's issue?"

"No."

"I thought not. In the poem I wrote a line which read, 'I love you better than I love my wife.'"

"That was a neat line."

"And one of your linotype humorists made it read, 'I love you better than I love my wife.'"

"Exactly—my wife. And my wife, not being acquainted with the fallings of these key thumpers, this line poem was printed exactly as it was written."

WOMAN'S CLUB

ENTERTAINMENT

To night the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club will present their entertainment in Union Hall. The program is an excellent one, and you will miss a treat if you do not attend.

LOCAL ITEMS

There's nothing nicer than Boston Brown Bread made from Allen's B. B. B. Flour and so easily and quickly made, too. Try it, you'll like it.

Dr. G. A. Weed passed away at his home in Berkeley Saturday. Deceased was the father of Benjamin Weed, former principal of the Sonoma Valley Union High School.

From April 30th to May 7th, at Mechanics' Pavilion, San Francisco, there will be Musical Festival. Besides the voices of 7,500 school children there will be a chorus of 1,000 adults and a great number of bands, making altogether the greatest Festival ever held in San Francisco. On and between the dates mentioned the California Northwestern R'y. will sell round trip tickets to San Francisco at one fare and one third for the round trip.

Easter services at the Congregational church were well attended both morning and evening. The anthems by the choir of young people were excellently rendered, and Mr. Robert Prussia sang a solo that was much appreciated. The church was beautifully decorated through the labors of a committee of young ladies under the direction of Miss Mabel Lowell. The sermon considered the "Risen Life." The evening services were attended by most of the Masons of Sonoma Valley, in response to invitation of the pastor. The text, "I am a man, a citizen of no mean city," was used to show the place of man in the home and community, and the necessity of the loyal, energetic and moral man in building up the prosperity of a community.

The rural telephone system from Embarcadero is nearly completed into town.

Remember the grand opening of Agua Caliente Springs takes place Saturday evening, May 6.

"The Fatal Message," by John Kendrick Bangs, will be presented at the entertainment to be given by the Ladies' Aid Society, in Union Hall, on the evening of Friday, May 12. There will also be fine singing and instrumental music. Ice cream and candy will be on sale. Admission 25 cents.

A young native son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregg who reside near Schellville, Wednesday evening.

Frido Clewe of the Sacramento High School is enjoying a vacation at his home here.

Mrs. J. P. McDonnell of Sebastopol, is the guest of her sister-in-law Miss McDonnell.

To-morrow night at Mervyn Hall Glen Ellen, there will be a grand ball. Don't fail to attend.

A Dandy for Burns.

Dr. Bergin, Pana, Ill., writes:—"I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommended it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. 'It is a dandy for burns.' Those who live out on farms and are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns, bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house in case of emergency." 25c 50c $1. bottle. Sold by L. S. Simmons, Druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT GLEN ELLEN

The Easter service at the Congregational Church here Sunday afternoon included a memorial service for F. A. Falkenberg, head consul of the order of Woodmen of the World, who died last February. A delegation of Woodmen attended the services in a body. Pastor Chakurian prefaced his sermon with an eulogy to the deceased. Special Easter music was rendered and the floral decorations were nicely arranged.

Health Is Youth

Herbina, taken every morning before breakfast, will keep you in robust health, fit you to ward off disease. It cures consumption, biliousness, dyspepsia, fever, and kidney complaints. It purifies the blood and clears the complexion. Mrs. D. W. Smith, Whitney, Texas, writes, April 3, 1902: "I have used Herbina, and find it the best medicine for consumption and liver troubles. It does all you claim for it. I can highly recommend it." 50c. a bottle. Sold by L. S. Simmons, Druggist, Sonoma, California.

A Correction

The El Verano correspondent of the Expositor made a slight mistake in a recent issue in saying that 'Roxey Murphy' was being groomed for the next race meet.

It is her owner, A. W. Weaver, the El Verano blacksmith, who is grooming to shoe the race horses. The horse he shoes always wins. See? Mr. Weaver is an expert at horseshoeing. Ask his hundreds of satisfied customers.

Just Received

F. Clewe has just received a car load of the celebrated Coulson's Egg Food and Poultry supplies, which he is selling at Petaluma prices. He also carries a full line of stock and poultry feed. Prices as low as any in the county. Get his prices before purchasing elsewhere and he be convinced.

The Greatest American Two-Cylinder Touring Car Ever Sold FOR $1550.00

This car is superior in design and speed, to many of the best two-cylinder cars built in 1904—cars which sold for from $2000 to $2500.

It is a very really controlled and is quick in action. It runs on high speed up to 40 miles an hour. This machine is very popular in San Francisco as it has the power to take heavy grades on high speed. This space is too limited to give full description of the whole story. It is, however, when we say "There is no other $1550.00 machine of its class to equal it." let us prove this to you.

Don't forget that our French Type Runabout at $900.00 (F. O. B. San Francisco) has no equal. Our Olds Curve Dash ($2000.00) is a standard "Office on Wheels." Our American ($1500.00) is a good slow speed family car. Altogether we have twelve types of machines. OLDSDORF'S run the year through and run for years. The wear and tear expense is $10.00 to $15.00 for other makes.

Our WINTON Four-Cylinder Touring Cars have all cars of their class "driven to the full limit"—2 Models, 16 to 50 H. P. $1550 to $4500

A SON OF WEALTH
By KEITH GORDON
Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McCarver

At first it was merely the rumor of a rumor, then it became an authenticated report, and last the town, or at least that part of it which considered itself undoubtedly "upper crust," thrilled with the knowledge that Hemingway Trent was to spend a month with his aunt, Mrs. Ordway.

Set down in black and white, this fact appears insignificant, but just think a moment what it means. It is over and over to yourself—"Trent Trent"—and you will doubtless begin to thrill, for the name of Trent is known wherever pickles are eaten or money spent.

It is only fair to the present Trents to explain that it is a far cry from the original pickle, or rather, from the little patch of ground on the edge of a young city where that first pickle, that Alad-din's lamp of olden days, grew to the present representatives of the family.

Hemingway, the future head of the Trent family, aged twenty-six, was coming to Carrington for a visit. A blaze of interest sprang up in anxious hearts at first, but it was not long before the excitement died away. The fact, and, though they guarded eye and lip, some sparks flew and little additional fires sprang up in the hearts of marriageable daughters. Finally the air became surcharged. Adamantine fathers, hearts gave signs of relenting, a restlessness, a clinging, lingering rush of daughterly charms. Several rush orders for gowns of more than ordinary beauty were sent scurrying across the continent. And it was significant that this flurry to come was never mentioned, not even between the best of friends.

Amid all the intense, subdued fury of preparation there was one family that remained serene. Mr. and Mrs.
Barry of Barrydene went their elegant,
languid way, undisturbed and unmoved, though they, too, had a marriageable daughter. The way of the Barrys and long since ceased to be different from the Hemingways, for when Trent was named, had left a ramshackle shanty far behind them the Barrys, on the other hand, had come from a rare old colonial mansion that overlooked the river of Severn. The only difference between them was that they had started at different ends of the chain.

Still, Brenda Barry, only child and chief depository of the practical sense of the house of that name, was usually filled with a tingling resentment when she heard of the enormous fortunes of the "new" people. Being a woman, she could not fail to feel the subtle tension in the social atmosphere, and for the same reason she instinctively disliked it. And to say that she was scornful but faintly expresses it.

There was nothing about the good looking, athletic young fellow whom she met a week later to justify her scorn. He was the usual thing—a well washed, immaculately dressed young man of the day, with a desire to please which was so apparent that Brenda had to goad herself into remembering how frightfully new and distastefully rich he was.

This attitude on the part of one whose head might well have been turned by the flattery and attention he was receiving on all sides, was not what it seemed. Then by chance she happened to encounter a rather vindictive glance
from Helen Carrington's violet eyes—Helen was wearing an exquisitely simple gown that had not seen the light before—and suddenly her own policy of action was clearly mapped out in her mind.

"Too much soothing sirup," she reflected ironically. "What he needs is a tonic." This mental comment of hers may have had something to do with the delightful sense of refreshment Trent felt in her presence. She asked him none of the usual questions with which the others had persuaded him until he wondered impatiently if they had nothing to think about but him. Indeed, she did not seem to be very clear as to his identity, so that he felt compelled to refer rather diffidently to the fact that he was to visit his aunt, Mrs. Ordway. Even then her face was impassive.

"Rather a stunning girl, that Miss Barry," he remarked to his aunt the next day on their drive as she pointed toward the house, while he noted with interest its picturesque decay. The stucco house was a beautiful soft gray, and what had once been a garden after the Italian manner was now a wasteland of weeds. Near a corner of the house he caught the gleam of a light gown and energetically tried by means of hypnotic suggestion to cause his aunt to stop, but she sat placidly beside him, her eyes never wavering from the house of her mind was being assailed.

Trent reasoned that if you pass a person's house often enough you are pretty sure to meet that person. On the last successive morning he had noticed Brenda, and she came through the gate in the neglected hedge just as his horse jogged slowly by.

She wore a short pink gown, with sleeves turned back and collar and waist in her hand she carried what appeared to be a wet napkin. She greeted him with a negligent nod, putting him still further at ease by her inquiry.

"Have you—I don't suppose you have—but you've seen a small dog that looked as if he were sneaking away from home?"

Trent was off his horse in a moment, while he assured her that, though he had encountered no such animal, he was sure that he could find it should he command. She put away his offer.
"Oh, he'll come back! Only he knows it's wrong—and I like to be right!"

"I'd obey in a fifty—if you'd tell me to come in," Trent ventured boldly.

Miss Barry was all demureness for a moment; then a wicked gleam danced into her eyes.

"Come in," she said, and she invited sweetly. And a moment later he had tied his horse and was walking beside her on the gravelled path where the grass grew unbroken. Everywhere there was a low, low hum, but it was the pictorial sort that has an attraction of its own. To Hemingway Trent, accustomed to grounds that were bathed and shaded almost as regularly as his masters, it was oddly charming. His company, however, nothing his missing, lingering gaze, construed in a different way.

"Pities us, I suppose, because we haven't a head gardener and two or three assistants," she thought to herself resentfully. "Thereupon she decided to shock his sensibilities still more.

"It's rather informal, I know," she said slowly, "but I'm going right with my work." And she led the way round to the rear of the house. "You see, I've just been doing a few of the small little pieces myself; the Chinese man brings them back streaked in so many shades of pink and blue."

She looked at him curiously, but it was evident he was thoroughly mystified. She was obliged to be more explicit.

"Washing, you know," she elaborated, pointing to an Indian basket headed with linen that stood on the grass.
"Now just make yourself comfortable and talk to me while I work." And she proceeded rather ostentatiously to spread out some dainty handkerchiefs and napkins on the adjoining rose bushes, while her caller looked on in shocked, speechless amazement.

"Oh, I say! You oughtn't to do this,
you know. It's ridiculous; it's an outrage. Get a Chinaman who'll do the thing, there. There must be one somewhere."

Miss Barry became sweetly pensive.
Resignation spoke from every line of her face.

"There are some," she admitted, "but they charge, oh, fearfully!" Then, with hands locked behind her, she stood back and regarded the bushes where all the sweet rose faces were now hidden from the sun with a virtuous enthusiasm.

"That saves just as much as a dollar," she said proudly, "and every little helps."

Trent murmured something, he did not precisely know what, so busy he was in trying to figure out what it like, the unusual condition that made the saving of a dollar so great a thing.
Brenda curiously watched him with fendish delight, which was, it is true, modified when she discovered that his eyes were hanging into a sort of awed admiration.

Still she managed to convey to him before he took his dazed departure that she usually spent the early morning hours in her garden, and that she was pathetic regarding her need of economy.

Promptly the next morning Trent, clad in the most respectable clothes he could procure, might have been seen hanging about the Barrydene hedges. When the daughter of the house finally made her appearance it was not so early, though, as he had been led to believe. He walked in boldly, announcing his presence to the early Trents—the market garden ones—that he'd come to help. Miss Barry's face turned a riotous red, and she tried to dissuade him, but for an hour or more he digged and delved at her side right steadily. Once begun, there was no stopping him, and Carrin-ton watched the disgraceful affair aghast. When later on the gardening led to the usual result Brenda looked him straight in the eye.

"I fancy you have angled for me
just as much as the others," she said breathlessly. But Hemingway Trent only laughed.

"What difference so long as I like your bait?" he questioned.
